

VARA Y PULGAR FEATURED IN NEW YORK TIMES' 20 UNDER $20

September 20, 2019

20 Under $20 highlights interesting, easy to enjoy and moderately priced wines for the everyday wine enthusiast. In his article, Eric Asimov showcases wines with a sense of place and culture, and this 100% Tintilla from Andalusia does just that. Find his notes below:

"This rare wine comes from the Cádiz region of Andalusia in southern Spain, an area more renowned for its sherries than its table wines. It is made entirely with the tintilla grape, better known in Rioja as graciano. It's simultaneously fresh, juicy, spicy and powerful, though only 13.5 percent alcohol, just right for sausage dishes or bean stews. (Olé & Obrigado, New Rochelle, N.Y.)"
